ENGINE HALL

PEOPLE'S HISTORY MUSEUM

The largest of the museum's spaces; the brick and terracotta Engine Hall features vast arched windows, a vaulted glass ceiling, polished concrete floor and other original heritage features including colourful Pilkington Tiles and intricate metal work.

Located in a historic Grade II listed Pump House designed by Manchester's first City Architect, Henry Price (1867-1944), it is a Manchester landmark that once provided power across the city; from cotton mills and factories, to winding the Town Hall clock and raising the curtains of the Opera House.

Filled with natural light during the day, at night it turns into an atmospheric and captivating setting, perfect for celebrations. The Engine Hall is licensed for civil ceremonies, with seating for up to 120. It can be fully configured to include a range of seating and dining options, a dance floor, staging and audiovisual equipment.

COAL STORE

The restored redbrick Coal Store features a beautiful double height vaulted iron and timber ceiling and other original heritage features.

It offers a fully private, intimate space which is ideal for wedding ceremonies, private dining or informal gatherings.

The Coal Store is licensed for civil ceremonies with seating for up to 50 people.
